CONTRAST IN STYLES NOTED IN CITY

A contrast in styles is evident here. Seen on city streets this week in the intense cold were many a mini-skirted lass with bare legs turning blue. There were the more cautious types who felt longish socks would help beat the chill.

There were also wearers of slacks who said to heck with fashions, I'm keeping warm, and then there's the believer in the well-wrapped up method. All of which has proved interesting to sartorial observers in Kelowna.

Italy Recognizes Red China's Rule

ROME (AP) — The Italian government announced Friday it will recognize Communist China, and the Socialist party today was reported pressing for similar recognition of North Vietnam.

Earlier this month the directorate of the Socialist party, a member of Italy's centre-left coalition government, unanimously approved a document urging establishment of diplomatic relations with Hanoi.

Socialist Vice-Premier Francesco de Martino has been urging Premier Mariano Rumor to accept this recommendation, sources said. But so far there has been no public indication Rumor and his Christian Democratic party are willing to agree to this.

North Ireland Bans March

BELFAST (AP) — Forty-six would-be English civil rights demonstrators arrived in this Northern Ireland capital by boat today and police immediately banned their proposed six-mile march to the Parliament building at nearby Stormont.

The civil rightsists, most of them Roman Catholic students at Oxford University, were met at the dock by followers of Protestant extremist Rev. Ian Paisley waving banners saying, "Oxford go home."

Paisley's closest associate, Maj. Ronald Bunting, told the students: "Welcome to Northern Ireland. We offer the hand of friendship. If you brush it aside, we have the other hand to offer."

Egyptians Fire On Israeli Ships

TEL AVIV (AP) — Egyptian coast guard gunners opened up today on two Israeli navy patrol boats cruising in the northern Suez Gulf, the army announced. The shells did not strike and there was no damage, the army said.

The army said the vessels were on a routine patrol. It was the first time any Israeli navy ship had been reported fired at since the shelling and sinking of the destroyer Elath off the Sinai coast in October, 1967.

Czech 'Human Torch' Buried As 500,000 Pay Last Homage

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Jan Palach, the Czechoslovak student who burned himself to death for the ideal of freedom, was buried here today with all the pomp, ceremony and mourning of a state hero except for the absence of the country's leaders.

An oak coffin containing Palach's body was driven through Prague streets lined 10 deep with mourners.

Many men prominent in political life last year when Czechoslovakia's liberalization reforms reached their apex before the Soviet-led invasion in August walked bare-headed behind the hearse—but Party Leader Alexander Dubcek and other progressive leaders were absent.

Among the leading mourners present were Josef Kriegel, former member of the Czechoslovak Communist party president, and Jiri Hajek, former foreign minister. Both men were removed from power under Soviet pressure.

Although Czechoslovak troops were on the alert to be ready to help police if the vast mourning crowds showed signs of getting out of control, the funeral began in perfect silence and order.

Student organizers estimated that 500,000 persons—and possibly more—attended Palach's funeral today and filed past his closed coffin while his body was lying in state Friday at Prague's Charles University.

Eulogies beside the coffin in the university courtyard said the torch for freedom and truth lit by Palach would be carried on by his generation.

Victoria Blamed In Trust Losses

SEATTLE (CP) — A. G. Duncan Crux, former president of Commonwealth Trust, said Friday there has been no fraud or theft from the Commonwealth group of companies but there is a loss of more than $14,600,000.

Mr. Crux, a Vancouver lawyer, said that the loss is attributable to provincial government intervention in the affairs of the trust company and other companies in the Commonwealth group.

An investigation of the Commonwealth group was ordered last November by the British Columbia Securities Commission. Records of 35 companies were seized by the RCMP in several B.C. cities. Some of the companies were placed under receivership.

"As far as I am aware, there has never been as much as a five-cent piece stolen or fraudulently taken from the companies," Mr. Crux said.

"I think there has been some gross mismanagement but no fraud or anything like that. There has been no illegal diversion of funds."

The interview was the first public statement made by Mr. Crux since the investigation of the Commonwealth group began. He said he gave the interview at the request of shareholders.

In Victoria, Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said the allegation that the British Columbia government is responsible for losses "is simply not true."

He said the government moved in largely as a result of the trust company failing to comply with requirements of the Canada Deposit Insurance Corp., a federal agency.

He added: "In my view, it would be more helpful if Mr. Crux were to return to Vancouver and meet with the shareholders and answer any other questions."

Better To Deal With Ottawa, Says Sharp On Quebec Hassle

OTTAWA (CP) — France should favor dealings with Canada's federal government if it wants to advance the interests of all French-speaking Canadians, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said today.

The drawback to direct France-Quebec accords is that "the province of Quebec represents only some of the 100,000 French-Canadians in Canada," he said in an interview recorded for Ottawa radio station CFRA.

Mr. Sharp was asked for comment on the documents signed in Paris this week by French officials and Jean-Guy Cardinal, Quebec education minister. One deals with France-Quebec co-operation in studies of a telecommunications satellite that could be used by both parties.

The external affairs minister repeated the federal position, set out in a statement by him Friday night, that the documents do not constitute an international agreement.

"They are not international agreements, that's quite clear," Mr. Sharp said. "Even Mr. Cardinal himself says that."

"Now whether they include any matters that would not fall within the jurisdiction of Quebec or that would offend the agreements that we have with France is another matter. I've seen nothing yet to suggest that they do."

Mr. Sharp said in his Friday statement the federal government has constitutional responsibility in the satellite communications field. Canada wanted to "reserve its position" on the documents until it had time to study them and "determine whether they come within the framework of agreements concluded by Canada and France."

He stressed that "all international co-operation concerning satellite communications requires the concurrence and full co-operation of the Canadian government."

Mr. Sharp was asked in the radio interview for comment on the status of Canada-France relations.

"They remain very delicate," he replied.

"We have said to the French government on a number of occasions that we want to co-operate with them in the advancement of the interests of French-speaking Canadians, not only those in Quebec but in all parts of Canada."

'Only Peanuts' Spent By B.C. In Opening Up Northlands

VICTORIA (CP) — A government backbencher charged Friday that "only peanuts" is being spent by the province to open up northern British Columbia and suggested establishing a cabinet post for northern affairs.

Donald Phillips (SC — South Peace River), who led off government speakers on the throne speech, made the statements in a prepared text but deleted them when the speech was delivered.

He told reporters outside the legislature he cut the passages because his 4,800-word, hour-long speech was running too long but that he stood by both suggestions.

"The department of highways should not be a $100,000,000 portfolio but a quarter-billion-dollar one," the deleted part of the speech read.

Mr. Phillips said last year's highways budget of $100,000,000 could be spent entirely to build access roads in the North.

Earlier, he had asked the government to begin immediate feasibility studies of bulk loading facilities at Squamish, 40 miles north of Vancouver, so coal from the Pine Pass area north of Prince George could be easily exported.

"This puts the coal . . . on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway line 80 miles closer to tidewater than the Crownsnest-pass coal," he said.

The PGE runs from the Peace River area to Squamish and then to Vancouver.

with Soviet support last month, they did not spell out their exact aim. It was not clear whether the French were asking for a special and separate meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers, or simply stepping up consultations already under way among their representatives on the UN Security Council in New York.

Officials in London said the French were told that Britain sympathizes with the idea of a meeting of the Four permanent Security Council members, but that any meeting would have to be part of UN efforts to settle the disputes between the Arabs and Israelis.

The British reply to a French note sided with reaction by the United States to France's call for a Big Four peace initiative in the Middle East.

Diplomatic sources reported the French were told of Britain's attitude in a meeting between officials Friday and a formal note was to be handed over by the British in Paris.

Reds Stymie Paris Talks

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnam peace conference today ended its first session with North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front rejecting a United States proposal for immediate re-establishment of the demilitarized zone between the Vietnamese.

A North Vietnamese spokesman said after the meeting that Hanoi and the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, reject the proposal.

The Hanoi spokesman, Nguyen Thanh Le, called the idea of reconstituting the buffer zone "a manoeuvre to camouflage American aggression."

He told reporters: "All the arguments of the United States concerning the DMZ have already been rejected by the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge in his opening statement had called for mutual withdrawal of all foreign troops from South Vietnam and said the U.S. is "ready to work toward the implementation of such mutual withdrawal."

Lodge then went on, at the first session of the substantive four-party peace talks, to urge that the buffer zone be re-established "as a first practical step on the road to peace."

Lodge's statement was only 600 words long, in contrast with the NLF's 5,000 words.

Although he mentioned the ultimate objective of withdrawal of all foreign troops from Vietnam, he concentrated on clearing the DMZ as the first step.

Lodge said the Americans seek not only peace in Vietnam but "in the entire area of Southeast Asia."

"The United States has on more than one occasion expressed its conviction that the essential elements of the Geneva accords of 1954 provide a basis for peace in Vietnam," he said. "We reaffirm this today."

Salmon's Ambassador Pham Dang Lam supported the American proposal on the DMZ and issued a four-point challenge to the opposing side.

He invited Hanoi and the NLF to "put an end to the armed aggression" by restoring the DMZ, ending infiltration of men and supplies into South Vietnam and evacuating North Vietnamese forces; to refrain from interfering in the South's internal affairs; to respect the Geneva accords and to accept effective international control.

CURB COLOREDS!

Edward Heath, above, Opposition Conservative party leader, urged the British Labor government "today to clamp even tougher curbs on colored immigration to prevent a flareup in racial tension in Britain. He demanded new laws immediately to tighten existing checks on the flow of Asian, African and West Indian migrants from the Commonwealth. Heath warned in a speech that problems created by the post-war arrival here of the so-called 'dark million' could easily become worse. He said fears and anxieties among Britons about the future influx of colored settlers will grow unless action is taken.

Student Violence Spreads To Many World Universities

Student revolts erupted in Europe, Asia and Africa Friday. Five persons were killed in demonstrations in Pakistan and several governments warned of severe crackdowns.

In Dacca, West Pakistan, the army patrolled the streets and a 24-hour curfew was in effect after three persons were killed and 15 injured when police fired twice into a crowd.

One person was killed in a similar incident in the East Pakistani city of Chittagong and another died in a small town north of Dacca.

Student-led demonstrations were reported in dozens of other cities in Pakistan as unrest against the government of President Mohammed Ayub Khan continued to grow.

The demonstrators are seeking the release of political prisoners, democratic reforms and improvement in education facilities.

In France, Education Minister Edgar Faure warned that student agitators would be disciplined after the second straight night of student demonstrations in Paris and other cities.

Mudslide Hits Luxury Homes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A huge mudslide smashed into a luxurious suburban Brentwood residence today, killing one man and for a time trapping six firemen who tried to rescue him.

The accident occurred as a fierce new rainstorm tore at California, bringing threat of flooding and apparently contributing to a freight train derailment at Santa Barbara.

The victim, Michael Hordan, was buried beneath a sea of mud that broke through a hillside retaining wall and smashed into his bedroom, the Los Angeles fire department said.

The six firemen trapped for a time were caught in a second flood of mud. They were dug out by other firemen. The six were taken to hospitals with injuries described as relatively minor although one had a broken arm.

The victim died of suffocation, authorities said.

City 'Old-Timer' Terms Freeze Flash In Pan

The winters just aren't what they used to be says Lawrence Sharrock, 80, of the David Lloyd-Jones home.

Mr. Sharrock, who has lived in the Okanagan since 1906, has seen a few and he says the current one is only a flash in the pan compared to those in days of yore.

The wind he says could be terrible. "We haven't had winds like there used to be," he says. When the winds came then you just knew the cold snap might be here for some time.

PREDICTS

"If the weather forecast was for a strong north wind, I knew the rest of it," says Mr. Sharrock.

The coldest winter—"1915-16" was the coldest one I remember," he says. "There were 11 inches of ice on the lake."

He and some of the braver types would walk across the lake from where Kelowna is today to the old ferry wharf. "It took a certain amount of courage, I guess, but it was a funny business: some people just wouldn't walk on the ice even when it was that thick."

FERRY STOPPED

Mr. Sharrock recalls 52 inches of snow piled up in the CNR yard during 1927. The last time the lake froze over, during January 1950 was the time the speedy delivery bike went through the ice. This was the year in which most people remember ferry service stopped between Kelowna and Westbank. And then there was 1948, he reminds, the year most of the fruit froze.

"The current winters just don't stack up against the old ones," says Mr. Sharrock. "For a while there, the lake consistently froze over every seven years, and one of the hardest winters we had was 1936."

"It used to be a regular routine," he commented returning to the wind. "It would blow for five days and then get mild and snow to beat the band."

SIX TIMES Thinking back, he remembers the lake freezing six times. For Mr. Sharrock and others the day consists of recalling these and other memories. "There's no future for me," he says and "my memory isn't what it used to be."

After 22 years with the CNR tugs Capt. James Giggey is another one who has seen some hard winters.

Although the current one is not extremely cold the inclement weather has been more prolonged.

If the cold weather continues it won't be long now until the lake freezes over, he says.

The ice in some places is from nine to 10 inches thick, and is getting worse all the time.

He says it's causing some trouble just south of Okanagan Lake bridge and near Penticton it's worse.

The tug men are just hoping the little north winds which help keep the lake open continue. If not then their worst fears could be confirmed.

Moms' March In February Aiming For $10,000 In Area

The marching mothers' are all set for their busy campaign. Feb. 3 is the big day in the annual Kinsmen sponsored campaign. The 450 mothers will converge upon the city one night only and try to attain their goal. Rural areas will be covered Feb. 1-10. The campaign goal is $10,000.

Houses missed the first and only night of the campaign will not be re-canvassed. The mothers' will make just one big sweep of the city and district—there will be no second chance. Money collected through the Mothers' March is well used. The Kinsmen are dedicated to provide rehabilitation services throughout B.C. for persons with orthopedically disabling physical conditions.

Some of the several current programs include: Research, medical assistance, travel and accommodation assistance, providing special appliances and services, vocational and social services and many other worthwhile causes.

A vocational centre also offering complete assessment facilities and training for the disabled persons is also sponsored by the Kinsmen Foundation.

Further too the Kinsmen Rehabilitation Foundation administers or provides assistance for funds to: B.C. Paraplegic Association, B.C. Diabetic Association, B.C. Hemophilia Society, B.C. Poison Control Centre and Parkinson's Disease Association.

Liaison with local health centres and welfare agencies, other rehabilitation and health centres, handbooks and training literature for medical personnel for the major portion of the work done by the foundation through the funds collected by the annual Mothers' March.

Each year, during the latter part of January or early part of February, the Mothers' March is held throughout most areas in the province. This campaign is the main source of revenue to support the foundation and its program of services.

Jaycee Week Again Proves Success Reports President

Jaycees Week, which concluded last Saturday, was a success, according to Wilbur Wostrowski, president of the Kelowna and district Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In a news release today Mr. Wostrowski said he knows of about five persons who have expressed interest in joining because of the efforts during the week.

"Considering that I am only one of the current 40 members and considering that five people would constitute a one-eighth increase in membership, it seems safe to say we will have a significant increase in our numbers."

A large number of enquiries regarding Jaycees have been received both from prospective members and older citizens who are just interested in what the Jaycees are doing. As well, the executive has received a number of suggestions as to how the group might serve the community and country more effectively.

Mr. Wastrowski said that the organization can always use new blood. The more members we have the more talent we have to draw on, and this results in Jaycees receiving more personal benefit from their endeavors as well as in a better job in those projects undertaken.

The latest Jaycee project was undertaken at the last general meeting when a report of a committee set up to investigate the feasibility of numbering houses in those districts outlying the city was adopted.

Wayne Schoand and a committee of appointees has agreed to work in conjunction with the postal department to effect a scheme of practical house numbering so residents of these areas will soon receive house-to-house mail service.

The next meeting of the Jaycees will be held at the Longhorn Steakhouse, Highway 97 Jan. 27 at 7 p.m. Anyone interested in Jaycee membership is invited to attend.

Junior Achievers To Start Selling School Crests Soon

The Kelco Junior Achievement Company's sale of school crests will start shortly, organizer Ron Alexander said Friday.

For the past few weeks the company has been producing silk screen crests and the first 50 will go on sale on a trial basis at Kelowna Secondary.

Mr. Alexander said depending on the initial response the company could conceivably manufacture 1,000 to 1,500 crests for sale at the school. If this is successful the company may expand its production to include other secondary schools in the area.

The crests have black letters mounted on gold felt.

The Junior Achievement Program, in its second year, has operated in Kelowna under the direction of Mr. Alexander since it was established.

There are 18 youngsters from Kelowna Secondary, Dr. Knox and Immaculata High involved this year.

Under the program the students form a company, decide on the product or products to be produced, sell the product and eventually liquidate the business.

They get help in the initial stages from seven adult advisors on the various facets of the company's operation.

Similar programs have been established in Eastern centres.

SNOW 'HANG OVER'

Talk about a hang-over! Heat from trucks stored in this shed at 520 Cawston Ave. has seeped through the roof melting the snow just fast enough to send it on an infinitely-slow plunge over the eaves. The mysteriously-suspended crust of snow does not touch the walls of the building, but drops at least three feet towards the ground.

Sewage System Meeting Monday

Changes and improvements in Kelowna's sewage system that would mean a cost of $70 to each household will be the subject of a special public meeting called by the city for Monday, Jan. 27.

Held at the Aquatic at 7:30 p.m., the meeting will offer the public to question the $2,235,000 project and have the technicalities explained to them by city officials and engineers planning the operation.

The controversial sewage disposal improvement program was almost vetoed completely during December by a last-minute petition from a group of owner-electors. The petition was invalid, but led the city to postpone for a month to study it more closely.

MAJOR STEP

A major step was taken at a meeting of provincial authorities, city officials and aldermen early this month when Dr. Dave Clarke, Medical Director of the South Okanagan Health Unit gave his blessing to the project.

With Dr. Clarke's objections overcome and tenders called and being studied, the city now wants to tell the public what is being done.

Biggest single item in the project is a $1,700,000 sewage plant expansion and alterations including provision for in-plant nutrient reduction which will remove not less than 80 per cent of nutrients, nitrogen and phosphorus from the sewage.

Another $451,000 will be spent on expanding the city's sewer system in Five Bridges, the Sports Complex, Spall Street, Burne Avenue, Gordon Road areas and sections of Richter Street.

Administrative expenses and financing will cost another $84,000.

The City of Kelowna will foot the major portion of the bill—$1,930,000, which means $70 per household unit instead of the present system of various sewer rental and frontage tax charges.

The federal government will make up the other $305,000. There will be no regular council meeting Monday night because of the public meeting. The next regular meeting will be Feb. 3.

Three Wallets Reported Stolen

Joseph Couillard and Gerald Larden, both of Kelowna, were involved in a two-car accident at 6:40 p.m. Friday. The accident occurred at the corner of Bernard and Bertram.

There was no estimate of damage.

RCMP are warning Kelowna motorists not to pick up hitchhikers. The warning comes after a city resident reported the theft of her wallet Friday after picking up two young hitchhikers on Pandosy Street.

There was $25 in cash in the wallet.

A television set was stolen from Marshall Wells Friday. RCMP are investigating.

Two wallets were stolen at a dance held by a local hotel Friday. Total value was estimated at $70 along with several personal items.

SCHOOL BOARD

Members Given Questionnaires

Two lengthy discussions Thursday took up a major portion of a two-hour meeting of the board of trustees school district 23 (Kelowna). In one the trustees formulated a policy regarding cold weather and in another they examined an artist's plans for four elementary schools. There was other business including the following:

Chairman Ken Fulks was chosen to represent the district at the Canadian School Trustees Convention in Charlottetown, P.E.I. May 25 to 27.

Members of the board are completing a questionnaire regarding their views on the future of the faculty of education at UBC. The answers will be correlated to represent an overall view and be presented to the department of education which is doing a study on the matter. Teachers and superintendents are also being sent questionnaires.

A letter of thanks was read from the family of Mrs. Florence Fulks, late of Peachland, who died Jan. 15, thanking the board for its messages of sympathy extended. Mrs. Fulks was the mother of chairman Ken Fulks.

Trustees received copies of a brief presented by the BCSTA to Minister of Education Donald Brothers. The presentation is made annually.

Commenting on a letter from Kelowna Secondary School students' council requesting construction of a tennis court in the quadrangle at the school trustee T. R. Carter said the building committee could not give the students assurance it would proceed immediately on the request. He said it would probably have to wait until the fall of 1970. Plans call for an added gymnasium before then and this would have to be considered in line with these plans and fire department regulations.

A report from Rowland Grant, principal of Okanagan College regarding damage to the common room at Kelowna Secondary in October will be turned over to the insurance company for consideration. A sprinkler was apparently interfered with causing discharge of water and damage. Board members indicated the damage would probably be covered by insurance.

There will be many outstanding speakers and reports. One speaker will be Transport Minister Hellyer, who will go into the details of the housing tax force recommendations.

The actual convention itself will take place at the Bayshore Inn and the Hotel Vancouver. To date there are 1,000 pre-registered people attending. About 1,500 people will be allowed to attend the convention.

One of the special entertainment spectacles will be a special showing of the Best of Barkerville review.

BCFGA Approves $80,549 Budget

PENTICTON—An operating budget of $80,549 for 1969 was approved by delegates to the 80th annual convention of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association Friday.

More than $55,000 was budgeted for administration and $5,000 was earmarked for the central packing authority which delegates decided Tuesday should continue to plan for greater industry integration.

In other business delegates resolved that district school boards be asked to take a more lenient attitude in releasing children of fruit growers to help their parents in harvesting emergencies.

BCFGA CONVENTION

Decisions Affect The Entire Valley

For three days this week a group of men met in Penticton to make decisions which affect every person in the entire Okanagan.

The men were not sharply-dressed business executives, but the decisions they made involve millions of dollars and the economic future of everyone in this Valley.

They were fruit growers, experts at growing the product which has made the Okanagan famous and produced an industry which last year had an estimated crop sale value of $40,000,000.

The 80th annual convention of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association attracted 73 delegates, representing 3,300 fruit growers from Kamloops, through the Okanagan, to Creston in the West Kootenay. Decisions made by the men at this year's convention—and at previous 79 sessions result in a smooth-running industry which is by far the largest single aspect of the Okanagan's economic structure.

Penticton In Opting Out Opens Box Of Unknowns

Penticton's decision to opt out of the Okanagan Regional Library system has opened a Pandora's box of unknowns for Kelowna.

Opinions as to what will happen to Kelowna's library service—or even if this city will stay with the regional library—are varied.

An early December vote in Penticton resulted in the withdrawal due to a change in method of raising money. The financing the library has been met with disfavor both in Penticton and Kelowna. Large communities now pay more than they did under the old per capita method.

Penticton will be officially out by April 16, although residents of surrounding rural areas—who did not vote on the issue—will not be affected.

Peter Lofts, chief librarian, said Penticton's move is "unfortunate" but will have little if any effect on Kelowna.

"It is unfortunate for Penticton readers," he said, "their service is going to deteriorate." What happened to the regional library's books now at the Penticton branch is not known. There is nothing in the regional library act—or in the provincial order-in-council permitting Penticton to withdraw—to specify the disposition of the books.

"This is a matter that will have to be negotiated with Penticton city council," Mr. Lofts said.

"There may be some slight disadvantage to the region as a whole, but an intangible one," Mr. Lofts said. He referred to the narrowing of the tax base which could narrow the library's scope a little.

Asked if Kelowna might also consider leaving the Okanagan Regional Library, Mr. Lofts said there is "no change, no question about it."

"The city realized the advantage of the regional approach," he said.

A very different opinion was expressed by Mayor R. F. Parkinson, who said Kelowna should give serious consideration to its future library services.

"The whole thing has to be studied," the mayor said. "Kelowna feels very strongly that money be raised on a per capita basis."

He explained that Ald. M. J. Peters, Kelowna's representative on the Okanagan Regional Library board, has been instructed to pass on the city's disfavor to the board, and mention the possibility of leaving.

Mayor Parkinson added that the city is not threatening to follow Penticton's lead, only making clear that the possibility exists.

Some Drifting Conditions In The Rogers Pass Area

Highway 97 in the Kelowna area was mostly bare with some compact snow and icy sections in the department of highways road report of 7:30 a.m. today.

The above conditions prevailed from Penticton to Sicamous and winter tires or chains were necessary.

The Fraser Canyon had compact snow with some drifting conditions. Sanding and widening was in progress and winter tires or chains were necessary. Cache Creek-Kamloops-Revelstoke road was mostly bare with some compact snow and icy sections. Sanding had been completed and winter tires or chains were required.

The Rogers Pass had compact snow with some drifting conditions. Plowing and sanding had been completed and winter tires or chains were required.

The Hope-Princeton had compact snow. Sanding had been completed. Similar conditions existed from Princeton-Penticton which had a compact snow road with some bare sections. Sanding had been completed and winter tires or chains were necessary on both roads.

The Vernon-Lumby-Cherryville Pass was bare at the lower levels with compact snow and icy sections on the higher levels. Winter tires and chains were required in the Monashee Pass.

The Kelowna-Beaverdell road had compact snow with some drifting conditions. Plowing was in progress and winter tires or chains were necessary.

SEEN and HEARD

An Irish drug store clerk looked at her Scottish customer today and said, "Of course you know what today is." The Scot's reply was "I, it's Robbie Burns Day and I'm going to a party, but I'll probably end up eating hamburger while everyone else eats Haggis." The clerk said she didn't blame him; "I don't even like the looks of the stuff."

Snow almost every day is becoming a bit of a drag, but that's no reason for people to develop lazy habits. One woman trying to drive onto Pandosy Street today from a side street had snow covering every bit of glass except the windshield. She was leaning as far forward as possible, trying to see if the way was clear. For a couple of minutes effort, she could have made her drive downtown much more enjoyable and greatly eliminated the risk of a bent fender, or something worse, a trip to court if a Mountie had seen her actions.

The vacant lot at St. Paul Street and Bernard Avenue piled with snow, nonetheless is just the short cut some people want. Youngsters can be spotted maybe not in a hurry to get anywhere but who probably have a penchant for the white stuff trudging across the lot to get to the other side. One man who said to himself, "well the snow can't be that deep," learned the hard way. When he reached Bernard Avenue he looked like a jolly snow man saturated from shoe to knee.

CHICAGO ANNIVERSARY

Rev. Bill Spletzer, Kelowna, is attending the mid-winter leaders' convention of Youth for Christ International in Chicago.

Highlights of the convention are guest speaker Evangelist Billy Graham, and YFCI 25th anniversary banquet. Graham and his Youth for Christ movement launched their careers together in Chicago in 1944.

The 2,300 growers have 2.3 million trees with 35,000 acres planted on 3,600 orchards. Growers' operations range from a single acre to 300 acres and 76 per cent of the total acreage is sprinkler irrigated.

The packing houses have a cold storage capacity of 7,336,000 boxes of apples, with each a 40-pound bushel box. Controlled atmosphere storage capacity is 1,000,000 boxes of apples and is steadily being increased. The total investment in packing houses and cold storage is $28,000,000.

An apple a day doesn't just keep the doctor away, it is the lifeblood of the Okanagan and the men who made this so will be in Kelowna next January to continue to guide their destiny, and to a large extent, yours.

Combined last year the people who run these operations handled that $40,000,000 which was used to pay growers for their fruit, pay packing house costs and pay the sales agency.

APPLES BIGGEST The 1968 figure is an estimate since final tabulations are not completed. For comparison sake the 1967 figure, totalling $33,849,000, are used.

By far the biggest revenue producer was apples, $23,829,000.

Why Don't You Read Bible To Find A Few Answers?

How many of us really spend time with the Bible, taking a real good look at what God has to say in His letter to mankind. Making it more personal, to you, to me, as individuals.

Many are content to leave the study of the Bible to the minister, and are willing to accept his interpretation as truth. They never look themselves to see if these things be so.

Don't you think, seeing the Bible is the inspired Word of God, that you should be a little more interested in what God has to say?

So many are greatly interested in what the Queen has to say, or what the Pope has to say, or what the president or prime minister have to say. I think we should be, as these are people that are supposed to know what they are talking about, and they are dealing with some very vital issues today.

Let me ask you a question: What does God have to say about some of the problems this old world faces today?

What does God have to say about the strife, the riots, wars and threats of wars, the crises in the Middle East etc.? Why not pick up your Bible and see.

Then perhaps it would be a good idea to find out what God has to say about you as an individual. If you haven't discovered it before you will find that you were created by God, that He is very interested in you as an individual.

You will find out that God calls you a sinner, but that He so loved you that He sent His only Son into the world, to pay the penalty of your sin, by His death on the cross. Thus enabling you by believing in Christ, accepting Him as your sin bearer to become a saint, a child of God.

In that great book, called the Bible, you will find that God talks about life, death and the future. He talks about a heaven to gain, and a hell to shun.

So don't you think it would be a good idea to get that good old book out, dust it off, open its pages and with an open mind, and an open heart, read and find out what God has to say?

—Rev. M. W. Beatty, Rutland Gospel Tabernacle.

Economy Is At Stake

(Calgary Herald)

Britain's minister of employment and productivity, Mrs. Barbara Castle, has a ready answer to the complaints of unions which oppose her intended legislation cracking down on unofficial, wildcat strikes.

The reply is terse and to the point. The nation's economy is at stake.

There was a rash of unofficial strikes in Britain during 1968. At one point, a walk-out by a handful of brake factory employees brought the important automobile industry to a halt. This and other irresponsible strike actions gravely jeopardized the British economy.

The United Kingdom simply cannot afford to condone petty walk-outs, especially those which are over such trivial matters as tea breaks or who will hammer a nail into which board.

What too many representatives of British labor refuse to recognize is the fact that the strike weapon should only be used as a last resort, not at the drop of a hammer.

Mrs. Castle has noted that the public is fed up with unofficial strikes and that union leadership is incapable of controlling members.

Her proposed anti-strike laws appear to be sound. Unofficial strikes would be prevented by the imposition of a cooling-off period during which a special commission would investigate the dispute. Strikes damaging to the national economy would be prohibited without compulsory strike ballots of all union members. Collective bargaining contracts would be made enforceable by the courts. A commission for industrial relations would be empowered to make binding awards in certain cases.

Some union leaders are already complaining that labor's power is being infringed upon. But, should a trade union be granted such power that it or its members can send a nation's economy into chaos? The public interest must have precedence, and this is the philosophy that Mrs. Castle, commendably, seems to be following.

Had To Be Bilingual

(Victoria Colonist)

Whenever any new policy is put into effect—whether it be in industry, commerce or government—it is always open to misinterpretation, misunderstanding or even outright abuse.

An outstanding example of this sort of thing is the case of 15 members of the Canadian Corps of Commissioners who have lost their jobs with the National Museums of Canada because they cannot speak French.

According to the Ottawa newspapers which first reported the government-decided fate of these 15 veterans, their only misdemeanor is that they are not bilingual. All served in the armed forces during wartime, and all have carried out their duties satisfactorily—some for a number of years. But they couldn't speak French.

In defence of the government's policy and the removal of these men from their jobs, Liberal MP Robert Stanbury, parliamentary secretary to the secretary of state, said that the Corps would find other jobs for them somewhere.

Some digging on the part of reporters unearthed a directive circulated in Ottawa that all personnel in the secretary of state's department who meet the public must speak both languages. This was apparently used to deprive the 15 ex-servicemen of their jobs.

Their jobs, however, it was further revealed, did not involve meeting the public. They were employed as security guards to protect museum exhibits. Bilingual guides exist to meet the public and all exhibits and signs are in both French and English.

So the directive really shouldn't have affected them. But it did—and in a disastrous way.

It may well be wondered what kind of bilingual Frankenstein's monster the government is trying to create.

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

CANADA HAS ITS OWN ABOMINABLE SNOWMEN - CALLED SASQUATCH MEN. THEY LIVE IN A REMOTE MOUNTAIN DISTRICT NEAR HARVISON LAKE 60 MILES EAST OF VANCOUVER. THEY ARE SAID TO BE 8 FT. TALL. OTHER SASQUATCH MEN, OR SOMETHING LIKE THEM, ARE SAID TO INHABIT DEADMAN'S VALLEY ON THE Kootenai River in the NORTHWEST TERRITORIES. NO ONE HAS EVER SEEN THEM, BUT SOME TWENTY-TWO GOLD PROSPECTORS HAVE DIED OR DISAPPEARED THERE AND AT LEAST THREE OF THE BODIES WERE FOUND WITH THEIR HEADS MISSING.

"HEAVE OVER THE ACID"

THE MANUFACTURING OF SULPHURIC ACID WAS STARTED IN CANADA IN 1867 AT LONDON, ONT.

THE NEED FOR THIS CAME ABOUT BECAUSE THE LAKE BOATS TRADING ACROSS THE U.S.A. CARRIED IT AS DECK CARGO AND BEING IN GLASS CARBON THERE WAS CONSTANT BLEND OF THESE SMASHING IF GALE BLU UP... AND WHEN THEY DID THE CARBON WERE ALWAYS HEAVED OVER THE SIDE... UNCERTAIN DELIVERY WAS CRIPPLING CANADA'S BOOMING PETROLIA, ONTARIO OIL FIELDS.

THE AREA OF QUEBEC IS TWICE THE SIZE OF THE UNITED STATES OF TEXAS.

Planetarium Shows Flair And Style

VANCOUVER (CP) — The city's long-awaited Centennial Museum and Planetarium, which opened recently, exhibit a flair and style that is a far cry from its former dingy, cramped quarters in the Skid Road area.

Set on the former Kitsilano RCAF base at English Bay, the dazzling white museum is surrounded by the flying-saucer-like planetarium, built with $1,000,000 donated by lumberman H. R. MacMillan.

Rising up 20 feet in front of the structure and sprayed by jets of water is a $40,000 crab sculpture of stainless steel. It's the symbol of the zodiac for July, recalling Canada's Centennial in 1967.

The museum and planetarium cost $3,500,000. Public subscription paid for the sculpture. Exhibitions, which can be touched and listened to as well as seen, are the result of careful planning and selection of the old museum's many artifacts.

Its first wing begins with the geological, including a four-foot cube of earth dating different soil layers and deposits.

Haida ceremonial masks and argillite carved by Charles Edenshaw half a century ago in the Queen Charlotte Islands are displayed with Indian garments and a reconstruction of a long-house.

The second wing spans the period of European immigration and settlement in the province. A room is filled with logging tools and old farm implements. Two-ot-thick slabs of Douglas fir reach to the ceiling.

"We want to create an impression of the ruggedness, strength and vitality that were involved at that time," museum director Harry Pickstone, 46, a planner and architect.

The most complete and engaging exhibit is the Victorian era displays. A rough board walk skittered by gas-lamp standards, funnels people past what Mr. Pickstone calls "the junk wall."

The wall is a treasure-trove of Victoriana. Telegraphic equipment, old wall phones, a switch-board, coffee grinder and typewriters and a painting of nudes from a saloon are mounted on the wall, papered with newspapers and advertisements of the day.

Behind the wall is a 1900-era parlor, complete with upright piano, carpets and a plastic aspidistra. To show how the other half lived, a farm kitchen and woodshed were reconstructed.

Membership in the museum, which costs $6, has jumped to 1,000 from 300 last year.

Mr. Pickstone, Lancashire-born and an RAF pilot during the Second World War, says he applied for the $18,000-a-year job of director because he thought it a challenge (he has no former museum experience) to which he could apply his original skills of melding artistic and practical concerns.

LETTER TO EDITOR

PLUMBING POSER

Sir: A kitchen sink faucet does not last forever and recently I needed to replace one, so got one from a local store at a cost of $20.21. Part of its manufacture proved faulty, so I took it back. But it turned out there was no manufacturer's name, no guarantee, no refund. That was that.

It was a case of try and correct the trouble myself, which with much cut-and-try I did. In a short time, though, this too tragically built product sprung a leak elsewhere and which was uncorrectable.

So, I had to start out again for a new faucet. And this time I went from pillar to post in Kelowna. Each store had either gone out or was going out of its plumbing department. I gathered they were co-operating with the plumbers. But they did refer me elsewhere. One place did look like a good prospect. But it turned out a sort of never-never land. The clerk serving me, returning from a search in the bowels of the building, confirmed that they did not have a faucet. The growing frustration, together with the atmosphere of the environment prompted me then to challenge him with, "Do they sell retail here? They might, he non-committely replied. So, I put it a different way. Could I buy something, anything, here? I might.

There was a last store, and frequently recommended to me, yet to try. Here, the departmental manager cheerily informed me that wall faucets were no longer manufactured!

It was clear there would be no taking home that night a faucet, so I went to the desk of a mail-order house, and at a cost of $16.75 ordered one. This I now have, with a manufacturer's name and a guarantee. (It is of heavier construction.)

Anybody at times has a shopping story, but this one is to point out the seeming restraint of trade in Kelowna. That the stores have closed down their plumbing departments. The do-it-yourself man can not get his needs immediately.

I should add that I was also told to go to a plumber. From my experience their "stores" are an office and a workshop. And that items they may have around are not expected to freely flow over the counter. They are samples. If there has been a new departure and they are filling the role building and hardware stores earlier did, then I would have thought we would have been informed of this through an advertisement in the Kelowna Daily Courier.

Yours sincerely,
ALEC C. BEASLEY

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Words 'Too Much Acid' Should Be Abolished

By DR. GEORGE THOSTESON

Dear Doctor Thosteson: What foods have too much acid? My system has too much acid and I don't know what foods to leave out of my diet. —J.N.

This phrase, "Too much acid," ought to be abolished. Used in a generality like "my system has too much acid," it means absolutely nothing. Even when used somewhat more specifically, it usually doesn't mean much.

This column has commented on this before, and for quite a time. "Too much acid" phrase largely disappeared from questions. But as the days pass, I suppose we lose old readers and gain new ones — and of late the "acid" notion has been popping up again.

Women have some sort of trouble with their hair or cosmetics, and beauticians or friends may reply glibly that "there's too much acid in your system."

Or people have various kinds of stomach distress and jump to the conclusion that it's "too much acid." Sometimes it may be that. A duodenal ulcer may benefit from the use of antacid pills to reduce the acidity of the stomach. Not prevent it entirely but reduce it. The stomach has to contain some acid to digest food.

Again, some other stomach distress can result from too little acid, and the answer is to treat the patient to restore proper acidity.

If, in cases in which the blood genuinely becomes too acid, that's a very serious condition. Just omitting some food or other cannot possibly help. The patient needs detailed examination and tests, not some sort of diet gimmicks.

Another much misunderstood notion is that acidulous or sour fruits or foods are going to "make the system acid." By and large, they don't. Citrus fruits, for a principal example, leave an alkaline — not an acid — residue after they are digested. That is true of many others.

J.N. doesn't tell me how he or she came to decide that the trouble was "acid in the system," but it's quite likely that it wasn't a medical diagnosis.

What J.N. needs is to pin down exactly what the complaint is and then find the proper cure. Guessing that it is "acid" and giving up some food or other isn't going to do a blessed bit of good.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is hair coloring dangerous? Some say it causes poisoning. Others say it causes brain damage. If so, shouldn't women be told? —H.R.F.

Yes, I guess women "should be told," but it would be better if they'd stop listening to every wheezy old scare story that comes down the pike.

Hair dyes do not cause brain damage. Nor do they cause poisoning, with this exception: some skins are sensitive to certain kinds. Therefore, smart beauticians use a patch test to see whether a client is sensitive before applying the various solutions used these days to make women look other than the way they really are.

"I've heard these 'poisoning' and 'brain damage' stories for years but never found a scrap of evidence to support them except — as I just said — skin irritation is sometimes a problem.

Note to Mrs. I.D.: Chores, or St. Vitus dance, resulting from some cases of rheumatic fever, correct itself spontaneously in a few years. It leaves no after-effects. (The rheumatic fever can, however).

Thieves Rifle Thai Museums

BANGKOK (Reuters) — Art thieves encouraged by demands from foreign collectors are rifling Thailand's museums and Buddhist temples of historical and religious art objects. More than $400,000 worth of art objects, mostly Buddha images, were stolen last year.

The National Museum in Bangkok lost 518 Buddha images and artefacts worth $210,000 in one daring raid. Among the objects missing was an image weighing 66 pounds.

Two provinces outside Bangkok also reported large-scale burglaries of art objects in November.

The export of national treasures without official authorization is forbidden by Thai laws, but pieces continue to turn up in other countries, particularly the United States.

LOOKING BACK WITH OLD STAGER

Scots Of Kelowna Honor 'Rabbie'

By ART GRAY

The Scotsmen of Kelowna 60 years ago held a big celebration on the 25th of January. Such affairs were not unusual on Robbie Burns night but this occasion was of more than ordinary importance, for it was the 150th anniversary of the birth of their great national poet.

The Courier of Jan. 28, 1909, devotes a column and a half on the front page to an account of the big gathering, which was about two-thirds of the available space, more than half the front page of the Courier in those days being devoted to advertising. Editor George Rose, a Scot himself, no doubt wrote the story.

The affair was billed as a Caledonian Concert and Dance and the Scotsmen of Kelowna loyally celebrated the occasion, the scene of the festivities being, of course, Raymer's Hall. It was a combined supper, concert and dance and the only drawback was that the place was oversold, and it was impossible to seat all at one time, so quite a number had to stand around and wait for their supper.

D. W. Sutherland presided at the concert and supper, and opened the proceedings with a brief address in which he noted a change from the usual Burns Night of previous years, for this time they had the "ladies" with them, while at prior affairs there had just been men and haggis.

FINE VOICE

The program began with a song by T. Hill, The Star o' Robbie Burns, which he sang "in fine voice." Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. McTavish sang Bonnie Doon with much expression, and responded to a hearty encore. David Leckie put feeling, and genuine Scots accent, into The Auld Scots Sangs, and was encored, but modestly declined.

Mrs. Anderson sang Within a Mile o' Edinboro' Toun. The old favorite Mary of Argyle was sung by Mrs. Thompson "with all the delicate tenderness of that fine song." The piper, an indispensable personage at such an event, was late in arriving. His home was at Naramata, or at least that is where they had to send a special chartered boat to get him, and when he arrived the sound of his pipes behind the scenes was the signal for much cheering.

Piper Cameron stirred the hearts of his Caledonian hearers with the Fibroch of Donuil Dhù and other selections, winding up with the Reel of Tulloch. Miss Meldrum, in appropriate Highland costume, gracefully danced the highland fling to Mr. Cameron's piping.

Mr. Mitchell then sang The Day I Found the Five Pound Note and responding to an encore gave George's Wedding Day. W. Meldrum recited Tam o' Shanter in good form and the program closed with a humorous skit by the Misses Meldrum entitled "Ludgings," showing the trials of a young girl in the hands of a grasping and rapacious landlady.

GOOD STYLE
Supper followed in the small hall, purveyed in good style by Mrs. J. E. Wheeler of the Royal Hotel. After all had been eventually fed, and justice done to the eatables, Mr. Sutherland commenced what Editor George Rose called "a commendably brief toast list," by proposing the health of the King, which was loyally honored. He then called on R. B. Kerr and G. C. Rose to propose the Immortal Memory of Robert Burns. Mr. Kerr, a lawyer by profession, spoke at some length, and eloquently, on the life and times of Burns, dwelling upon his obscure origin and thorough "democracy of character," and also sketched the groups under which his poems fall with reference to his serious, satirical and convivial poetry. Mr. Rose, in turn gave an appreciation of Burns from the standpoint of a Highlander, and traced to the inspiring influence of his verse, the spirit of democratic sympathy with the needs of the people which, he said, "had brought Scotsmen to political greatness in all parts of the Empire." Mr. David Leckie spoke briefly in connection with his toast to The Land We Live In, saying that his love for Scotland made him appreciate Canada none the less.

After the dinner and speeches, the dancing began in the large hall, and we are told, "was kept up enthusiastically until far on in the morn." Piper Cameron supplied the music for the reels and schottisches, and the Kincaids, on the piano and violin, provided Scots and "Sassenach" tunes for the dancers.

During intervals good exhibitions were given of the Highland Fling and the Sword Dance by Alex Gordon, A. R. Muirhead and McLennan. The Courier account ended on a slightly apologetic note, saying: "The Committee worked hard on the decoration of the hall and making arrangements for the comfort of all that attended, and if all the details did not work out as smoothly as possible, it was due to the unexpectedly large attendance."

An interest in the poet Robert Burns is not the only Scottish custom that the immigrants from the north of the Clyde have brought to Canada. Probably more Canadians have become deeply involved in a quaint highland game than can recite one of Burn's poems. The game, for no apparent reason, is called "curling," and back in 1909 there were plenty of Kelowna citizens whose ancestors came from many lands, who played the game enthusiastically.

SEVERAL RINKS
Several rinks from Kelowna attended a bonspiel in Vernon in late January, and returned empty handed, unfortunately. R. A. Copeland's rink, we are told, made a good run for the Challenge Cup, taking second spot. The account of this contest is as follows: First Round: Copeland beat McIntosh, Vernon, 13-7; Dilworth a bye, Bailey a bye; Second Round: Copeland beat Morrin, Peachland, 13-11; Dilworth lost to Barry, Vernon, 7-12; Bailey lost to Murphy, Enderby, 5-12. Third Round: Copeland beat Barry, Vernon, 12-8. FINAL: Copeland lost to Laing, Vernon (winner), 9-14.

CANADA'S STORY

First P.Q. Doctor Also First Farmer

By BOB BOWMAN

This is the anniversary of the death of Louis Hebert at Quebec in 1827. He was the first doctor and the first farmer in Canada, and was greatly admired by the inhabitants of Champlain's colony.

Louis Hebert's father had been court physician in Paris and attended Catherine de Medici who was haunted by ghosts after investigating the Massacre of St. Bartholemew's. Young Louis sickened of court intrigue and agreed to accompany the Pontrecoint expedition to Port Royal, Acadia, in 1606. That is when he met Champlain who persuaded him to go to Quebec in 1617.

When Hebert landed there with his wife and three children he was disgusted with conditions in the settlement at the foot of the cliff and decided to build a house on the top of the cliff. It may have been the first stone house in Canada.

Shortly after he began looking after sick people, Hebert realized that they were not getting enough vegetables, and so he planted a garden which was extended every year. He not only provided for his own family, but gave vegetables to people who needed them. Later his son-in-law obtained what may have been the first plough in Canada and had it drawn by an ox. Horses were not used until 1647.

There is a fine monument to Louis Hebert in Quebec City and his earlier stay in Acadia has also been commemorated. Port Hebert and Louis Head on the south shore were named after him, and so was Bear River near Champlain's settlement at Port Royal. The "Bear" was not named after the animal, but was an English version of the French "Hebert."

Rutland United Church Reports A Busy Year

In spite of very cold weather there was a good attendance at the annual congregational meeting of the Rutland United Church, held in the basement hall January 20.

Rev. H. R. Hall, president, and reports were presented by all the various church groups. The pastor, in his annual report, stressed the good work of the leaders in the various departments of the church organization, and mentioned as highlights, the holding of the 60th anniversary celebration of the opening of the Methodist church in Rutland, on the site of the present United Church in 1908, and the decision recently taken to make the church an entirely self-supporting charge.

The proposal put forward to endeavor to build a Christian Education building to accommodate the rapidly expanding Sunday School was something that is greatly needed and a worthwhile objective to strive for. The total membership of the church was given as 240 at this time.

Mrs. Thomas Jorsvik, secretary of the official board, read the minutes of the previous annual meeting, and acted as secretary to the general meeting. The report of the Board of Stewards, presented by Elwyn Cross, showed that the annual church canvass had been successful in raising $5,727.50 in cash and pledges for the operating fund and the sum of $2,282.67 in cash and pledges for the building fund. Church treasurer A. W. K. MacLean, submitted the statement of income and expenses showing gross income of $12,116.85 and expenditures of $10,098.50.

The Sunday School report, submitted by Mrs. Shirley Paul, indicated a busy year, with expanding membership, now 140 pupils. A successful Christmas concert had been held with some 300 persons attending. The Senior and Junior Choirs reports, submitted by Mrs. Wm. Drinkwater, organist and choir leader, showed a busy year, with activities not restricted to singing in church on Sundays. The report of the United Church Women was presented by their president, Mrs. Peter Smith-anik; the financial report, which showed outlays of $2,238.78 on a variety of church projects was read by Mrs. R. Hallman, treasurer. The UCU held 10 general meetings and three executive meetings during the year. They took the lead in the organization of recreational programs for the inmates of the local old age homes. Their Community Friendship Committee, with Mrs. Roland Lentz and Mrs. Elwyn Cross as conveners, sponsored the annual friendship tea, and the visiting committee made 182 house calls and 30 hospital visits. Brief reports were received from the manse committee, by Mrs. William Quigley, and the envelope steward, Mrs. E. Taylor.

The report of the CGIT whose leaders were Mrs. Curtis Harris and Mrs. Kelly Slater, showed a full program of monthly meetings and a weekend camp at Camp Hurlburt in May. The new executive, chosen in September, is: Andrea Drinkwater, president; Donna Layden, secretary; Dorothy Rosenberg, treasurer. Adult leaders are Mrs. Slater and Mrs. Gerald Geen.

The report of the AOTS Men's Club showed a busy year, under the chairmanship of Gerald Geen, and a satisfactory financial statement, presented by Brian Burnell. Elected to vacancies on the Board of Stewards for the year, were C. E. Taylor, Steve Kornze, Herman Flack, John Winters and George Hood; for a two-year term, Gerald Geen; and for one-year terms, Hugh Fitzpatrick and Hubert Nichol.

Following the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by ladies of the UCU.

The Saint-Onge's also told reporters that a six-year-old girl, Guyline, who lives with them, was dressing that day when her clothes began to fly about her, carrying rosaries, ashtrays and vases with them. In their report, the priests say they searched the house for "possible natural causes but it was quickly established that there was no vibration on the walls, there was no draught and no one was touching the objects."

"Those who were in the house began to pray and things quietened down."

Guyline's parents, meanwhile, have whisked their daughter out of the Saint-Onge home, saying the incidents were a result of their daughter's vivid imagination.

B.C. APPOINTMENT

Canon T. David Somerville of Toronto has been named co-adjutor bishop of the New Westminster diocese of the Anglican Church of Canada.

The church had neglected the ministry of healing for too long. "You must also recognize the laying on of hands service is an expression of a belief that God is a God of life and healing."

Or, in other terms, God's intention is for health.

Canon Downey says a sense of forgiveness is available to all and is of great importance in spiritual healing.

"Forgiveness is an accomplished thing," he says. "It is there waiting for us."

Mr. Smith says that while most people who do take the service are in good health "they find it meaningful and I think they get something out of it."

But each clergyman says he has never been present when he has been aware of a dramatic healing.

Neither one believes there is any magic about the healing service.

"It is the same category as absolution," Canon Downey says. "As in the sacraments, the priest participates in the high priesthood of Christ and in that sense he is no different from any other baptised member of the Christian church."

OPEN TO QUACKS

Mr. Smith says some priests possess special grace or talent but he is not one of them.

"It's not something that is given to everyone," he says. "Spiritual healing is an area where there can be all sorts of quacks."

He says he has heard of a woman who did irreversible damage to herself when she threw away her crutches believing she had been miraculously healed.

But he adds he still thinks there have been many cases in which severe physical disabilities have been cured through spiritual healing.

World Missions Featured

Missionaries from China, Gabon and Thailand will describe their activities at the Annual World Missions Convention of the local Alliance Church to be held Jan. 26 to Feb. 2.

These missionaries are part of a force of 865 persons working with the Christian and Missionary Alliance in 24 nations abroad.

A ministry of evangelism and physical help for leprosy victims in Thailand will be described by Rev. Neal C. Webber. Mr. Webber, who has been in Thailand since 1952, has been active in youth work and in counselling and teaching Bible classes for American servicemen stationed in Thailand.

Rev. and Mrs. Robert Patterson first went to China in 1926 as missionaries. They spent 25 years in inland areas, and 15 years in Hong Kong. For several years Mr. Patterson was field chairman of Alliance work in the Colony of Hong Kong. He also began the first Alliance Church in the city of Taipei, Taiwan.

Rev. and Mrs. Don Dirks have been engaged in Bible College administration and teaching, as well as operating a home for missionary children. Sunday evening they will present a skit of native life in the nation of Gabon.

Nuns Claim Falsely Accused

NEW YORK (AP) — One of three nuns dismissed from a Roman Catholic parochial school of allegedly teaching "evolution vs. creation" terms the charges "distortions and misunderstandings."

Sister Mary Ellen Poland, who served as principal of the school on Staten Island, said Monday that she and two nun teachers "felt very saddened" by the accusations circulated against them.

The three nuns were dismissed by the Rt. Rev. John J. Cleary, pastor of St. Mary of the Assumption parish, after complaints against them were printed in the parish bulletin.

He refused to comment on the action, referring all queries to the district superintendent of Catholic schools, Rt. Rev. Joseph T. Riordan, who said the friction resulted from "differences in approach."

DREAM COMES TRUE FOR TWO . . .

How many people have dreamed of an all expenses paid trip to Hawaii or for that matter even a holiday to the tropic wonderland? Just such a dream came true for Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Marsh.

The Marshes, winners of the Kelowna Retail Merchants Association contest won the 10-day trip when their entry was selected out of 50,000 participants. When asked whether or not they had expected to win Mr. Marsh aptly replied, "Never had a clue." The Marshes will leave Kelowna Feb. 5. Pictured in the background (left to right) Ed Krahn drapes a lei around Mrs. Marsh's neck and Hec Turvey presents Mr. Marsh with the ticket that will "jet" them to Hawaii. Mr. Turvey is president of the Retail Merchants' Association and Mr. Krahn is the vice-president.

Kelowna Toastmistress Club Starts Year With 'Reflections'

The first meeting of the Kelowna Toastmistress Club in 1969 was held in the Carousal Room of the Royal Anne Hotel with 14 members and one visitor present.

Mrs. J. H. Harland is president and is the first president of Kelowna Toastmistress Club to be elected for the one-year period which started in September of 1968 and she will carry through to July 1969.

There were numerous 'Reflections' spoken of during the evening in keeping with the main theme 'Mirror, Mirror on the Wall' and the purpose of the meeting as a whole was to learn to evaluate. Miss June Carter opened the meeting with the inspiration and Mrs. Jack Fairfield called for the Ice Breaker and the ladies responded with a New Year's resolution.

Mrs. C. E. Munslow was toastmistress being introduced by Mrs. Harland and Mrs. Munslow then called upon Mrs. Harland for her reflections of the year. The first which was the greatest achievement in science to take place in 1968, Miss Joyce Denley responded to reflections of Mr. Trudeau's visit to the Commonwealth after his election in 1968. Mrs. J. S. Pittendrigh was called upon for a humorous silent performance and a demonstration when she was confronted with four mirrors. Turning to the realm of sports Miss June Carter predicted Kelowna's biggest sports event in 1969.

The first part of the meeting including the business portion was evaluated by Mrs. Jacquie Murphy and her evaluation reflected an excellent performance for most of the speakers.

Toastmistress Mrs. James Smith introduced three newcomers to the Kelowna club who gave their maiden speeches. These ladies were Mrs. Bobby Cochran, Mrs. Donald Froom and Mrs. A. Larson.

The panel on 'Evaluation' was Mrs. J. Moisey, Mrs. Annie Alston and Mrs. Glen Fraser and the members were well informed on the value of evaluation for their benefit in public speaking. This part of the program reflected material to study for the forthcoming Toastmistress Speech Contest which begins Feb. 5 with the preliminaries. The meeting closed with the closing thought submitted by Mrs. Pittendrigh.

ANN LANDERS

Better A Mom Who Asks Than One Who Cares Less

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-year-old girl with average looks and a mother who is way above average when it comes to nosiness. Whenever a boy calls me on the phone, she has to know his name, his age, his religion, what his father does, where he lives, does he smoke, does he drink, does he swear, how long is his hair, how tight are his pants? Honestly, Ann, I could flip my gourd.

Guys call just to talk, not to ask me to get married. Do I owe my mother all these facts? I'll go by your answer.—PLAIN VIEW, PA.

Dear Plain: Be happy your mother is interested. Some teenage girls could be going with Jack the Ripper and their mothers wouldn't even notice.

A 14-year-old shouldn't mind telling her mother the name of the boy who called, his age and where he lives. The other information, such as what his father does, his religion, etc., is not, as they say in legal circles, germane.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this for the girl who cried her eyes out in print, feeling sorry for herself and all the other "plain" girls who stand around at dances, so they just stand there talking to each other while the cute, well-stacked chicks get rushed off their feet.

Tell the babies that if they continue to travel in packs and stand together like a herd of sheep nobody will ever ask them for a dance, or for anything else.

A guy hates to ask a girl to dance in front of an audience. If he gets refused, he's sure to die on the spot. Tell the chicks to break it up and see what happens.—SHE GUY

Dear Guy: Your letter makes sense and I hope the wallflowers take the hint.

Dear Ann Landers: We are beginning to hate our neighbors because of their dog. The animal starts barking about 8:30 at night and keeps it up until dawn. This horrible racket began six months ago and it is driving us right out of our minds.

We have tried earplugs but they don't block out the sound completely. A few weeks ago we tried turning on the radio, but the radio keeps us up so this is no solution.

We own our home and used to love it. Now we are miserable. Is this fair? What can we do about it?—OHIO SUFFERERS

Dear Ohio: Anybody who would tolerate all-night barking for six months is not playing with a full deck.

For heaven's sake, go to the neighbors and tell them their hound is keeping you up nights. They should take the dog to a veterinarian and learn why he barks for hours on end. If the barking cannot be stopped the animal should be sold or given away. The neighbors must know that all-night barking might be judged "disturbing the peace," in which case the law is on your side.

CURLING CHAMPIONS

A rink skipped by Walter Payne, left, of Mountain Shadows won the senior zone three playdowns in Summerland during the weekend and the right to advance to the provincial playoffs in Trail Feb. 7, 8 and 9, in the Seagram Rock competition. Other members of the rink from left are third, Earl Bilquist; Bill Woods, second; and Bert Efort, lead. Runner up was the Les Arnold rink of the Kelowna club comprised of Jerry Lipsett, third; Cam Lipsett, second; and George Whewell, lead. The win marks the first time a Kelowna rink has won the zone. The competition was open to curlers 55 or older. (Courier photo).

SPORT SCENE

Joe Louis in his bum-of-the-month tour, the Harlem Globetrotters and the high school basketball team, Montreal Canadiens against the local all-stars.

These comparison came to mind Friday night as the Russian national hockey team humiliated Canada 10-2 in the Canadian capital.

"This will not be the team that will represent Canada in the world championships," a stricken coach Jackie MacLeod said after the game.

The team was made up mostly of the Ottawa-based Eastern Nationals, bolstered by five players from the Winnipeg-based Western Nationals.

Since the Russians arrived in Canada last weekend, they have outscored various combinations of the Canadian national squad 39-7 in winning four straight games. There are three to go the next in Winnipeg Sunday night.

In Friday's game, centre Anatoly Firsov scored the first six goals—two of them deflections off the stick of Canadian defencemen John Ferguson—then mercifully, was benched for the last half of the game.

Ron Clarke, 31, of Australia set a world indoor three-mile record of 13:12.6 Friday night at the Athens invitational track and field meet in Oakland. Clarke bettered Tracy Smith's 13:16.2 mark set two years ago in the Athens meet.

Vancouver would have a National Hockey League franchise today if the city's first presentation to the NHL board of governors had not been so poor, NHL president Clarence Campbell said Friday.

He told a news conference the league felt it could not grant a franchise to the Vancouver group because of conflicts within it and a "financial application that was pitiful."

"It was a great tragedy that they fumbled when they were running with the ball at the first presentation," he said.

TORONTO (CP) — There were cheers for two new champions and tough competition for an old one at the Canadian figure skating championships Friday.

Roger Uemura, 14, of Sudbury, Ont., and Julie Black, 12, of Sarnia, Ont., took the novice men's and women's titles by unanimous votes of the judges.

In the senior women's class, the tedious compulsory figures almost turned into an upset of defending champion Karen Magnusen, 16, of Vancouver.

Miss Magnusen went on to win.

Buckaroos Bump Cougars In Junior Hockey Action

Kelowna Buckaroos showed new promise of life Friday in defeating Victoria Cougars 6-3 in a B.C. Junior Hockey League game played before less than 700 fans.

The Buckaroos, who have failed to impress either local fans or opposing clubs in recent games, put together their best effort in many weeks. There were even those who thought Friday's victory was the most convincing one recorded by Kelowna this season.

The Buckaroos held an edge over the visitors in every department. They outscored, outshot and out-muscled the Cougars.

Their edge in the hitting department was particularly evident—and as former Buckaroo manager Bob Taylor said after the second period, "when the Buckaroos are hitting, and hitting well, they're winning."

The truth of that statement was evident Friday.

The Buckaroos came out hitting and continued to hit as the game wore on. It was more than a coincidence the Bucks held Victoria scoreless during the last half of the game while pumping in four goals of their own.

Pat McMahon, the Buckaroos' leading but slump-ridden scorer, led the attack with two goals and one assist. Chuck Carigan, Larry Lenarduzzi, Ken Philip and Glen Jensen scored other Kelowna goals.

Grant Evans, Bob Merluk and Dave Williams replied for the Cougars.

The lackadaisical performances turned in by the Buckaroos in recent games prompted coach Clayton Lavell to juggle his lines and the move proved to be most effective.

All three Kelowna lines were moving and in total, they fired 51 shots at Victoria goaltender Ed Forslund.

The line of Pat McMahon, Chuck Carigan and Glen Jensen scored one while the threesome of Ken Philip, Gene Carr and Don Bassett also accounted for one.

The Kelowna defence was also more effective, allowing the Cougars only 34 shots at goaltender Ron Pyle.

The teams meet again Sunday at the Memorial Arena. Game time is 2 p.m.

A girl in national dress scattered chrysanthemums over their heads. "I don't know about this being Korean, but it's very colorful," said the South Korean ambassador in London. # If French Had Taken Advice Vietnam Might Have Missed War

LONDON (AP) — Lord Mountbatten, the supreme Allied commander in Southeast Asia in the second World War, is reported to have tried to get the French to negotiate with the Viet Minh in 1945 in a move that might have prevented 22 years of conflict in Vietnam.

This was disclosed in dispatches from Mountbatten made public after being withheld by the British government for fear of offending France. The Viet Minh were the forces of Ho Chi Minh, now president of North Vietnam.

Mountbatten's account said the French were helped back to power in Indo China by the British general in Saigon, Sir Douglas Gracey, who died in 1964.

The dispatches say the French had inadequate forces to reclaim their former colony, occupied by Japan in the war, and only gained control of Saigon, now the capital of South Vietnam, by a coup d'etat carried out with British assistance.

RECOUNTS SITUATION

"Major-General Gracey had agreed with the French that they should carry out a coup d'etat and with their permission, they seized control of the administration of Saigon and the French government was installed," Mountbatten's account said.

"Considerable fighting took place in the city but British and Indian troops had taken over the security of all important positions."

"On the 28th September, 1945, when the situation in Saigon appeared very serious, I called a meeting with Maj-Gen. Gracey and Col. Cedille (French civil adviser) at Singapore... at which I made clear to Col. Cedille that I considered it vitally important that negotiations between the French and the Annamites should start as soon as possible. I requested him to meet the Viet Minh representatives."

Mountbatten's account stresses that outside the key areas, the Viet Minh were in complete control and he persistently urged the French to negotiate.

The London Daily Mail in a report on the Mountbatten papers calls his advice "one of history's great 'might-have-been'."

"Instead of taking Lord Mountbatten's advice," The Daily Mail said "the French went to war with 'uncle Ho,' started 22 years of almost unbroken conflict and leading to America's Vietnam war."

Trudeau Wants Two Chinas To Have Links With Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said today the government hopes to be able to have diplomatic relations with both Communist China and Formosa.

He declined in the Commons to give a direct reply to a question by Angus MacLean (PC-Malpeque) concerning a statement Tuesday night by External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp that it was "quite possible" Canada might have to break relations with Taiwan if it recognized Peking.

Former prime minister John Diefenbaker accused the government of playing a "shell game of uncertainty" on the recognition issue.

Mr. Trudeau denied this. He said the government is discussing issues with the Canadian public at great length and that he has yet to hear a clear statement of policy by the Conservatives on the matter of recognition of Peking.

TO MEET CHINESE

The prime minister said the government is looking for a foreign capital where it can have a face-to-face meeting with the Communist Chinese. This would be a capital where both Canada and China had ambassadors.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the people of Formosa should not be sacrificed.

Mr. Trudeau said there is no question of this. The future of the Formosans should be determined by themselves.

West leads the queen of hearts and South, faced with a wide choice of plays, decides to credit West with all the missing high cards because of his overcall.

Accordingly, he wins the heart with the king and leads on.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Exceptionally generous planetary influences should make Sunday a memorable day. Especially favored: Domestic interests, recreational activities, travel and romance. Some unusually good news also likely.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your chart promises an extremely interesting year. While job interests may follow a more or less routine line during the next few months, you can look forward to some nice opportunities for advancement and recognition for past efforts during May, July and September. And where financial matters are concerned, stars promise fine chances for gain between May 15th and July 15th, and between September 15th and November 15th; also, in early December. Despite such glowing prospects, however, it will be important that you manage conservatively during intervening periods—especially during the first two weeks of September. No speculation! No extravagance!

Next person's life is also generously aspected, with emphasis on romance and lively social doings between June 15th and September 15th; also between November 15th and January 1st. If travel's on your mind, don't count on too much during 1968, but the early part of next year will be highly propitious—especially if you plan to embark on a long journey.

A child born on this day will be unusually sympathetic toward his fellowmen—a true humanitarian who, with unlimited capacity for self-sacrifice, would make an excellent doctor or nurse.

THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW

Domestic concerns will continue to be generously influenced on Monday as plans made for the benefit of family and the home environment should go exceptionally well. Also, a good period for making new friendships, for romance and travel.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If Monday is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that it would be advisable to take advantages of all opportunities to advance your job status during the next two months, since May and July promise pleasing recognition of your efforts and some new chances to get ahead. Further boosts along this line are "in the stars" for September and early December. On the financial score, look for a good period to make gains between May 15th and July 15th, and other excellent cycle between mid-September and mid-November. (With October outstanding). Do be conservative during intermittent periods, however—especially throughout the first two weeks of September.

Romance and stimulating social activities should enliven your personal life between June 15th and September 15th; also between mid-November and January 1st; next April and May. If you will try to avoid friction in domestic circles in mid-December and in January, you should find the year one of great happiness in family relationships.

A child born on this day will be a child along both artistic and scientific lines and, what is almost paradoxical in such cases, will also be extremely practical in business matters.

Air Pollution Rules In B.C. A 'Snow Job'

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia was given blanket air pollution standards this week and the opposition New Democratic Party leader promptly branded the government move a "snow job."

Health Minister Ralph Lofmark unveiled the standards which limit smoke, dust and chemical effluents and said later that they will be vigorously enforced as government policy.

Bob Strachan, retiring NDP leader, commented: "I think the whole thing is a PR (public relations) effort by the minister. I think the minister is trying to do a snow job."

The standards are the first in the province, apply equally in all municipalities and will be administered by the health officers. Mr. Lofmark promised that water-quality standards will be set soon.

Maximum penalties for contravening the air standards are six months' jail and a $100 fine. But Mr. Lofmark said that every day an offence continues is considered a new offence — so penalties can mount.

Mr. Lofmark said on the eve of the opening of the B.C. Legislature session that there is nothing to stop the pollution control board setting further "aesthetic" pollution standards.

Mr. Strachan said: "This is the first time I've ever heard of regulations that amend anything that were not given the endorsement of an order-in-council or Legislative enactment."

Mr. Strachan suggested the minister was trying to "give himself some standing once again after the debacle of recent days, after which he finished up as a cypher."

This referred to reports of differences between Mr. Lofmark and Lands Minister Ray Williams over who should control pollution matters.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said reports of a cabinet split are "political mischief." Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell indicated that any disagreement that may have existed in cabinet has been corrected.

Mr. Campbell then said the air standards put into immediate effect by Mr. Lofmark Wednesday are "approved by the cabinet as policy of the health department."

Dr. John H. Smith of the provincial health department said the standards probably will mesh with tough new regulations in a proposed bylaw in Vancouver. He had been consulted in drawing up both measures.

Under the provincial standard maximum dust or particle fall-out may not exceed 15 tons a square mile a month in residential and commercial areas or 30 tons in industrial areas.

B.C. Telephones Earn More

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Telephone Co. had revenue of $139,389,349 during 1968 compared with $126,827,986 during 1967, the company said in an interim report released Friday.

Net income was $32,892,622 in 1968 compared with $23,823,444 the year before.

President J. Ernest Richardson said earnings per share during last year were $4.93, 44 more than 1967.

The interim year-end report was the first published by the company.

Operating expenses were $93,474,089 during the year, as opposed to $85,725,496 in 1967.

The report also said that a letter dated Wednesday from the railway transport committee of the House of Commons advised B.C. Telephone its submission had been reviewed.

"They acknowledged the sharp rise in interest rates and the increase in the cost of preferred share capital which have occurred since the 1965 hearing (before the committee)."

The committee will not order a change in the company's rate structure, the report said, "in light of the change in circumstances and conditions."

U.S. 'Might Face Recession' When War In Vietnam Ends

WASHINGTON (AP)—A cabinet-level report to President Johnson warns that the United States faces a possible recession when the Vietnam war ends, and urges that the government be ready with an action plan to stop it.

The report, sent to Congress today by the president, said the economy would be subjected to the same deflationary pressures that followed the Korean War.

While not predicting any for an end to hostilities in Vietnam, the committee of top White House advisers based estimates on an assumption that the transition to peace could be essentially completed by July 1, 1971—in other words, the start of the 1972 fiscal year.

The report said that if the current 10 per cent income surtax is still in effect when the fighting ends, earlier phase-out of the tax could help offset any recession and promote healthy economic growth.

It also urged that a detailed plan to speed up government spending on high priority projects be prepared now to cushion the impact of the transition from a war to peace economy.

The report of the cabinet committee, under preparation since March 1967, carried the signatures of Defence Secretary Clark Clifford, Treasury Secretary Joseph Barr, Commerce Secretary C. R. Smith, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, Budget Director Charles J. Zwick and Chairman Arthur M. Okun of the president's council of economic advisers.

Anticipating that the U.S. economy will be generating more than $1,000,000,000,000 by 1972, the report said the cost of the Vietnam war has been a load for the U.S. economy to carry, and not a prop supporting it.
